

Unbeknown to many Virginia travelers, the presence of large round bales, new cross fences for improved grazing, beef cows grazing "stockpiled" grass during the winter, brown fields in spring killed with herbicides in preparation for soil-saving no-till corn planting, and pastures and hay fields seeded with soil-protecting no-till methods are a constant reminder of Harlan's leadership and dedicated service to the Commonwealth's Forage Industry. Dr. White was instrumental in founding the Virginia Forage and Grassland Council in 1977, and in helping it to become the organization it is today.

Harlan loved the outdoors, hunting, fishing, gardening, and Virginia Tech Sports. He especially enjoyed raising and training beagles for hunting and field trialing. Harlan and Jean, his wife, very seldom missed a Virginia Tech football or basketball game having been season ticket holders since 1967.

Harlan was a recipient of many state and national awards recognizing his educational programs directed at improving the well-being of forage producers and their support industries. His work was always a cooperative effort partnering with individuals interested in improving forage production and utilization. His dedication to service and education was recognized by the Virginia Forage and Grassland Council (VFGC) when he was awarded the Medallion Award. His dedication to the forage industry continued throughout his retirement years by serving as both treasurer and advisor to VFGC.

Honoring Harlan White's Years of Service

The Virginia Forage and Grassland Council seeks your assistance in honoring the life of Dr. Harlan White.

The Dr. Harlan E. White Legacy Scholarship Fund will be used for scholarships, education, demonstration and other activities related to the promotion and better understanding of forages and the broader forage industry.

Give online by visiting: vaforges.org

or by mail:

Name: _____

Phone _____

E-mail _____

Address: _____

Amount: _____

Please make checks payable to:

VFGC
Dr. Harlan E. White Legacy Scholarship Fund
3599 Indian Oak Road
Crewe, VA 23930

Dr. Harlan E. White Legacy Scholarship 1938 – 2007

Administered by
Virginia Forage and Grassland Council

“In remembrance of a wonderful human being who dedicated his life to Virginia’s Forage Industry”